

Pitzer parameters at 25°C were fitted from published experimental data. Simulations of different types of water were done with different Pitzer databases. The validation of the results is carried out by comparing predicted solubility of barite with experimental solubility data.

PITZER PARAMETERS FITTING

